

Indiana Social Studies Standards Reviewers

National Reviewers

Experts from national organizations representing history, and the social sciences were asked to review the Department's work. General feedback and specific comments were received from the Fordham Foundation, National Center for Civic Education, National Council for History Education, National Association of Economic Educators, and the National Geographic Society throughout the process. Each organization reviewed the Final Draft and their findings accompany the Final Draft to the Education Roundtable.

Indiana In-state Reviewers

The Indiana Education Roundtable, Indiana State Board of Education, general public, school district superintendents, school principals, and K-12 classroom educators were notified that the Academic Standards for Social Studies were being updated, were online for their review, and that their input was needed. The general public and all K-12 educators were able to respond to the Department by letter, email or through the online review process. Recommendations and comments were integrated into the final draft.
